Pressure Sensitive Labels for Your Produce Applications

Label Technology has provided pressure sensitive labels for over 20 years to the produce industry. Ideally located in the verdant Central Valley, we are right where you need us, when you need us. Whether it is a full color prime label or a simple barcode, Label Technology can provide a cost-effective, consistent quality label.

Our extensive experience in converting labels for the produce industry means we are experts at determining the optimal materials and adhesives for your produce labeling requirements. Whatever the application or environment, we have the stock, equipment, and expertise to provide you with a proven labeling solution.

Responding quickly to unpredictable growing seasons, Label Technology is able to turn around your label requirements to meet a demanding schedule. Our rapid response does not mean a reduction in print quality—you will still receive the high quality, consistent product that has made Label Technology an award winning converter.
